Page No: 6 Think About It

1. What are the things the child sees on his way to the fair? Why does he lag behind?

Ans: The child sees a number of things which fascinate him on his way to the fair

- First, he saw toys at a shop.
- Then he saw a flowering mustard field.
- In the fields, the child saw dragon flies bustling about on their wings and a lone black bee in search of sweetness from the flowers.
- Then while walking on the footpath he was attracted by the insects and worms.
- As he neared the village with his parents, he saw huge crowds of people going to the fair.
- The child also came across a sweetmeat seller selling sweets like burfi and gulab jamun.

A little further he came across a flower seller who was selling a garland of gulmohar.

- Walking ahead, he saw a man selling rainbow-coloured balloons.
- He also saw a snake charmer who stood playing a flute to a snake.
- Finally, he saw a roundabout in full swing.

The child keeps lagging behind his parents because the child is fascinated by all the things he sees on his way. At times, he stops to be able to buy toys and at other times he stops to admire the beauty of the nature – collecting flowers, catching butterflies.

2. In the fair he wants many things. What are they? Why does he move on without waiting for an Answer?

Ans: The child wants many things in the fair. They are

- A particular toy and all the balloons.

- Burfi from the sweetmeat seller.
  - Garland of gulmohar.
  - A ride in the roundabout.

The boy moved on without waiting for an Answer because he knew that his request would be denied at each step.

3. When does he realize that he has lost his way? How have his anxiety and insecurity been described?

Ans: He realizes that he has lost his way on reaching the roundabout. He stopped to observe it moving in full swing, with men, women and children enjoying themselves on it. Watching them intently he turned to his parents to ask for permission to go on the rounds but there was no reply from them. He turned to look for them but they were not there. He looked all around but there was no sign of them. A full, deep cry rose within his dry throat and with a sudden jerk of his body he ran from where he stood, crying out in real fear “Mother, Father.” Tears rolled down from his eyes. Panic-stricken, he ran from one side to the other, in all directions, knowing not where to go. His yellow turban came untied and his clothes became muddy. Having run to and fro in a rage, he stood defeated, his cries suppressed into sobs.

4. Why does the lost child lose interest in the things that he had wanted earlier?

Ans: The lost child loses interest in the things that he had wanted earlier because he was panic stricken on being separated from his parents. All he wanted was to be united with them. All the things that attracted him in the fair no longer tempted him and now the only thing that mattered was finding his parents.

5. What do you think happens in the end? Does the child find his parents?

Ans: In the end the parents, who continuously kept checking to see if he was with them right from the beginning of their journey may have suddenly realized that he was missing and come looking for the lost child. The kind and understanding man who tried to console the little boy by offering him various things at the fair may have also asked him for some description of his parents and helped him to be reunited with them.
